General Note:

Of the seven manuscript maps produced under this surveying project of the St. Lawrence valley (known as the "Murray Maps"), five have survived: two are preserved at Library and Archives Canada (James Murray's personal copy, described herein, and the Board of Ordnance copy - NMC 17350; 4134060); two at the British Library (George III and William Pitt's copies); and one at the Clements Library, University of Michigan (the said Thomas Gage copy).

Report for the year 1921 (1919 to 1921), Map Division, p. 11: "A detailed survey of the St. Lawrence, made by order of Governor Murray in the year 1760-1-2, presented by the Admiralty has also been received. It is virtually a replica of part of the map known as the Murray survey, but being made in section bound together is more adaptable to reference."

Includes a census of families and men able to bear arms for each village.
